

At our May Service, Pastor Hilary Williams spoke from Ephesians 4: 1-16. The themes were unity, diversity and maturity. We are all unified in Christ and are part of the one body, so we should make every effort to help each other grow in Christ. We, however, are blessed with different gifts for building the body up and we should be consistently striving for maturity and not content to stay in "spiritual infancy". For example, some of us have the ability to teach, some of us the ability to form close relationship with others and some the gift of administration. Whatever the gift, all should be used for the glory of the one who entrusted us with these gifts.

We were then challenged not to seek our unity in being subcontinentals, but rather in Christ. The more we are comfortable as subcontinentals, the less we'll find unity in Christ. We exist to build people up in Christ using our many gifts, lest we forget.
